

Kissinger, Tho silent but smiling

Viet peace talks continuing

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho scheduled another meeting this afternoon after talking for more than five hours Monday about the Vietnam cease-fire agreement they are still trying to nail down.

Both men emerged smiling from their first meeting, waved to newsmen, but refused to comment. They met in a suburban villa 15 miles southwest of Paris.

Kissinger conferred with Pham Dang Lam, the head of the Saigon delegation to the Paris peace talks, Monday night. A spokesman for Hanoi said similar close contact was being maintained between Tho and the Viet Cong's representatives in Paris.

Kissinger, President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, and Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, reached general agreement in secret negotiations last month on the draft of a cease-fire agreement, but President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam has refused so far to go along.

Thieu's chief objection is that the draft does not require withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. He also contends that the council of Communist, Thieu and neutralist representatives that would be set up to supervise national elections in South Vietnam would in fact be the coalition regime which Thieu has said repeatedly he would not agree to.

Presumably these and other demands by Thieu are what Kissinger and Tho are arguing about.

Although Kissinger met for five days with Thieu after his negotiations in October with Tho, and Kissinger's deputy, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., spent two more days in Saigon 10 days ago, a South Vietnamese official there said Thieu now has asked President Nixon to receive a special envoy who would further outline Thieu's objections to the cease-fire draft.

The official said Thieu felt his position had not been clarified sufficiently despite his recent meetings with Kissinger and Haig.

In New York, Secretary of State

William P. Rogers met with Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp of Canada to discuss the four-nation group proposed to supervise cease-fire. Canada, Indonesia, Poland and Hungary have been identified as the countries that will serve on the force.

Firm to sell park tract

Chase drops WCH plans

Chase Brass and Copper Co., of Cleveland, today notified the Fayette County Community Improvement Corp. (CIC) that it will not move its Precision Metals Division to the 28.86-acre tract of land it owns in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park.

Tom Mark, CIC president, said he was notified of the firm's decision in a letter from C.W. Spencer, vice president of the Chase firm.

Spencer also said in the communication that the company has no plans to move any alternate operations to Washington C.H. and plans to offer its Industrial Park tract for sale. Spencer said Clarence Loy, a representative of the firm, will be contacting the CIC to make arrangements for the sale of the property.

The Cleveland company completed purchase of the 28.86 acre tract in the industrial park in Dec., 1970, but has never made any developments on the property or announcement of plans.

The CIC extended Kenskill Avenue and utility services to serve the property at the request of the Chase firm, Mark said. He added that no reason for the change in plans were given in the letter.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made by Mark at a regular meeting of the CIC in the Chamber of Commerce conference room Tuesday morning at which other business was conducted.

James Dunn, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, reported that more than 60 per cent response has been received by the Department of Economic and Community Development from survey forms solicited from county business, industrial and civic leaders in a "selective search for industry" program.

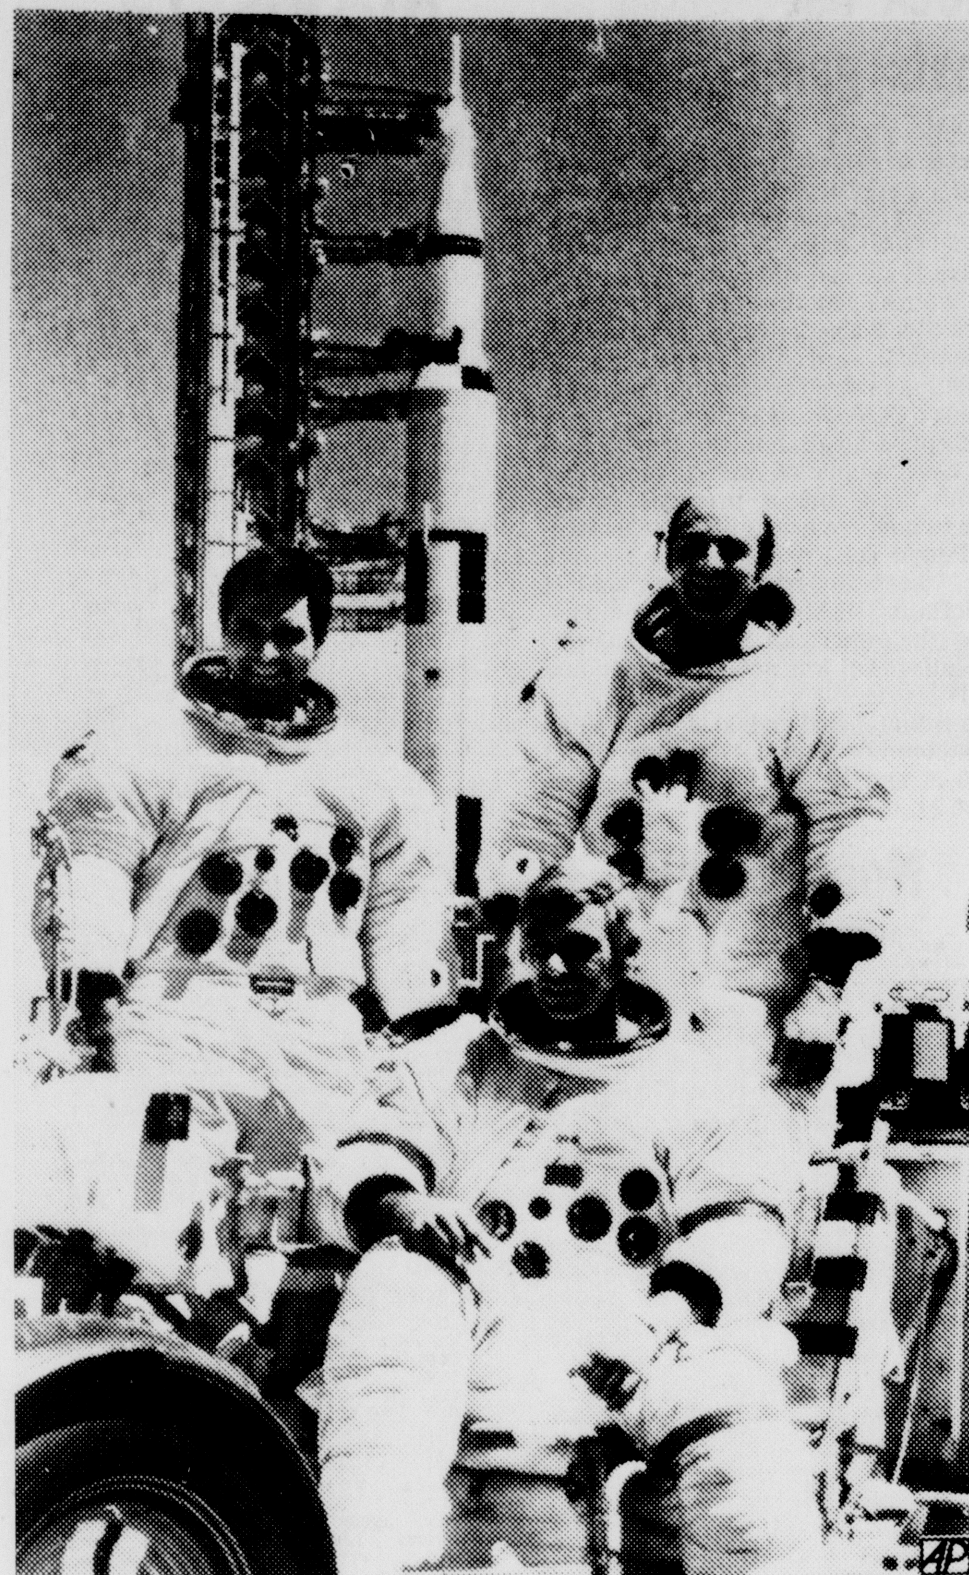

Dunn reported that although the response has been good enough for the Development Department to go into the second phase of the program — personal interviews with selected leaders — others who have not yet completed their survey forms should do so immediately.

A team from the state development department plans to conduct personal interviews in mid-December to further analyze the community's attitudes, attributes and problem areas, hold a work session probably in January and then launch the selective search for industry for the community.

MARK said reports have been received on proposed costs for extension of roadways, sewers and water lines into a 30-acre tract in the industrial park still retained by the CIC. He said the improvements are being planned to accommodate potential industries which want smaller tracts. He said the improvements are not to be completed immediately, but the information is being compiled in the event that it is needed.

The board also discussed negotiations which have been under way with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on a plan for the railroad company to assume ownership and

Welfare patients facing eviction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for about 430 independent Ohio nursing homes said today the homes will begin turning out welfare patients Jan. 1 if the state Welfare Department carries through a plan to impose a cost formula on the industry.

John C. Wheeler representing the Committee of Independent Providers of Long Term Care, said his ultimatum affects "about half" of the state's 17,000 welfare patients now receiving care in commercial nursing homes.

In a news conference here, Wheeler, a past president of the Ohio Nursing Homes Association, called a planned Medicare-type reimbursement "disastrous" for nursing home operators.

Under the current welfare nursing home plan, homes are paid on a flat rate determined jointly by nursing home operators and the Welfare Department in which the homes make a profit. The homes are paid by the state a certain amount for each patient on welfare they accommodate.

Under a new plan to go into effect Jan. 1, Wheeler claims the cost in auditing the state's 1,200 nursing home accounts would be over $2 billion, which would be borne by the homes.

According to Wheeler, the "reasonable cost formula could be two to three times greater than budgets of nursing homes in the state."

Wheeler said he had signed telegrams from about 200 nursing homes saying they would begin turning out welfare patients if the formula goes into effect.

These patients would be referred to hospitals in their local communities "at a cost five or six times greater to the state than if they were cared for in a nursing home," Wheeler said.

He said Stark County, in which nursing homes represent over 90 per cent of the bed capacity, is prepared to withdraw from the welfare program and "desires an orderly removal of all state welfare patients."

Asked if nursing home operators weren't more concerned about making a profit than with the care of welfare patients, Wheeler said, "I suppose so. After all, we are an organization of investors. We feel any free enterprise business should be allowed to see a profit from its investments."

"We feel badly about this, but we believe we have shown in the past that nursing home operators care more about the elderly and the sick than any other organization in the state."

Living cost up 3.7 pct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living, nudged by higher prices for clothing, rose by three-tenths of one per cent in October, giving the nation a 3.7 per cent inflation rate in the last six months, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the rise in consumer prices was three-tenths of one per cent both on an unadjusted and seasonally adjusted basis last month, smaller than the September rise but still over the Nixon administration's target of reducing the inflation rate to at least 3 per cent by the end of the year.

Consumer prices in September increased by four-tenths of one per cent on an unadjusted basis and five-tenths on a seasonally adjusted basis.

More than a third of the increase in the October index was blamed on higher clothing prices. The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said price increases for used cars, health insurance and property taxes also were contributing factors.

The bureau said that in the 11 months since President Nixon started his Phase 2 wage-price control program, the cost of living has risen 3.5 per cent. It has gone up 3.2 per cent since August 1971 when the President imposed his freeze on wages and prices.

Government wants school aid refunds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government wants eight states to refund more than $10 million they were supposed to have spent toward offsetting the educational disadvantages suffered by poor children.

Letters went out just after the Nov. 7 election from the U.S. Office of Education seeking repayment of funds allocated under Title 1 of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Combined with previous requests for repayment, the $10.2 million disclosed Monday brings to $19.5 million the amount the government has asked to be returned from 18 states and the District of Columbia over the last 14 months.

In Monday's list were: Alabama, $589,546; Arkansas, $615,548; Kentucky, $295,378; Mississippi, $3 million; New Mexico, $5,429; South Carolina, $2.8 million; Tennessee, $2.3 million, and Texas, $630,155.

Thanksgiving observance scheduled here

The people of this community will pause to give thanks for their many blessings Thursday just as their Pilgrim forefathers did more than 300 years ago.

The annual Community Thanksgiving Service, the prelude to the national holiday, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat, pastor of the host church, will deliver the Thanksgiving message. The service also will include hymns of thanksgiving, Scripture readings, a litany of thanksgiving, prayers for the community and the message. Special music will be by the church's chancel choir and youth bell choir. An offering will be received for the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) to help provide tools and seeds for the people of the underdeveloped countries so they may learn to be self-supporting. Babysitting will be provided for children up to 4 years old.

The message was to have been given by the Rev. Jerri Bomgardner, past or the First Church of God, Harrison St., but she was called to Palco, Kas., Tuesday morning by the death of her father, Hugh Bomgardner.

The Community Thanksgiving program has been worked out with the cooperation of the Fayette County Ministerial Association for all the people regardless of church affiliation.

NEARLY ALL of the offices and some of the retail stores will be closed for Thanksgiving.

threw support to James Lantz of Lancaster, who got the post.

Lancione said his first task will be to select committee chairmen. He has Rep. Myrl Shoemaker of Bourneville lined up to run the powerful House Finance Committee.

Democrats also plan to break the House Health, Education and Welfare Committee into two separate committees, with Rep. Phale D. Hale of Columbus heading the welfare section.

Lancione had Rep. William Hinig in line for Ways and Means, but Hinig, who would have preferred Finance, has not indicated he will take it, sources said.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski of Toledo reportedly was in line to become chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Lancione's selection, made by a standing applause vote, was carried out in the House chambers with newsmen, wives and secretaries for Democratic legislators looking on.

Democrats will control the House 58-41 in the General Assembly, that convenes Jan. 1. Republicans will have at least a 17-16 edge in the Senate.

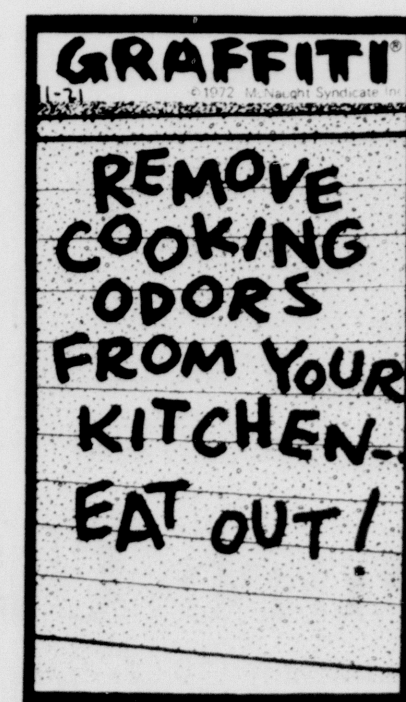

Lancione said the Democratic victory was "a challenge to us to do these things the people have wanted to do these many years."

"Sometimes the party that has been in office too long fails to listen," he said. "I think that's the reason we're here today."

Lancione said a code of ethics bill and reform of Ohio's election laws were two major pieces of legislation he thought the new legislature would consider.

Gov. John Gilligan had been scheduled to address the caucus, but spoke instead to members at a luncheon preceding it.

Cuba to try skyjackers on variety of charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three men who hijacked a Southern Airways jet to Cuba nine days ago will be tried in Havana on various charges, including extortion, according to word reaching the State Department.

U.S. officials said the hijackers violated Cuban law when they threatened to blow up the plane if authorities at Jose Marti airport refused a demand to refuel the craft.

The incident occurred during the first of two visits to Havana by the hijacked plane in the 29-hour odyssey involving 30 passengers and four crew members. It was after the return trip to Havana that the three hijackers—identified as Henry Jackson, 25, Lewis

Probe crime in agency

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. attorney's office here is conducting a sweeping investigation of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in an effort to weed out agents who have committed crimes, an official of the INS employees' union says.

Noel I. Doran, Southwest regional vice president of the National Council of Immigration and Naturalization Locals, said Monday that an investigation is in progress and is supported by the union.

The U.S. attorney in San Diego, Harry Steward, would make no comment on the reported inquest.

The New York Times said the study has turned up evidence of narcotics and gun-smuggling, sexual exploitation of alien women and sale and falsification of documents.

The Times also reported that sources close to the investigation, known as "Operation Clean Sweep," said there is evidence of close ties between immigration officials and organized crime figures.

More U.S. jets downed

SAIGON (AP) — Two more American Phantom jets have been lost in the air war against North Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced today. Two of the fliers were rescued and two were killed.

The losses raised to 124 the number of American planes reported downed in operations against the North since full-scale bombing was resumed nearly eight months ago. A total of 131 U.S. airmen have been killed or captured in the crashes, the U.S. Command said.

One of the losses announced today was a Navy F4 from the carrier Saratoga that was hit by a surface-to-air missile just below the 20th parallel. The crewmen parachuted into the Gulf of Tonkin east of Thanh Hao and a helicopter rescued them about 30 minutes later.

An Air Force F4 crashed just after dawn today 40 miles east of its base at Udorn, northeast Thailand, and both crewmen were killed. The Command said it was returning from a mission

Tentative hospital budgets submitted

Two tentative budgets for 1973 were submitted by the administrator, Robert Kunz, to the board of trustees of Memorial Hospital Monday night.

One of approximately $1,775,000 was for general operations and the other of approximately $50,000 was for capital equipment. The board will review them, make revisions if necessary, and submit them to the Board of County Commissioners before the end of the year. Approval by the Board of Commissioners is considered no more than a matter of routine, principally because the hospital is self-supporting.

A revised master plan for expansion and modernization of the hospital was presented to the board by Frank Wilson of the Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation. A decision was deferred until after the trustees have reviewed it; the decision probably will be reached by next spring.

A representative of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. submitted a plan for expansion of the hospital's communications system to replace the present system, which has now reached the limit of its capacity. The plan includes arrangements for telephones in patient rooms.

The board approved a recommendation of the medical staff for accepting tuberculosis patients now that so many tuberculosis hospitals have been closed. They will be assigned to isolation units. It was pointed out that, with new methods of treatment and the diminishing number of tuberculosis cases, the patients can now be accepted by general hospitals. Kunz said it is unlikely more than one or two TB patients a year would be admitted to Memorial Hospital.

The administrator's report on operations for October showed 329 admissions; 320 discharges; 2,213 inpatient days; 71.38 the daily census; 47 births; 160 baby patient days; 10 deaths; 80.21 per cent occupancy; 93.59 per cent occupancy in medical and surgical departments; 6.91 days average patient stay; 8.10 days average patient stay in medical and surgical departments; 910 X-rays made; 4,797 laboratory tests; 1,047 emergency cases; 238 physical therapy cases; 451 inhalation therapy cases; 71 major operations and 60 minor operations.

Kiwanis Club plans activity

As is customary on the third Monday of each month, the meeting of the Kiwanis Club was devoted entirely to club affairs.

The meeting was conducted by the president, the Rev. Gerald Wheat, following dinner in Lafayette Inn. Roger Kirkpatrick, the secretary, was presented a one-year perfect attendance pin by Patrick Palmaccio, a past president.

Howard Ford and Robert Fichthorn were delegated to meet next Monday night with the Kiwanis-sponsored Key Club in Grace Church.

Kenneth Amsbury and Tom Yates reported on the "share the treat" project in which treats received at Thanksgiving beggars night were taken to the Children's home by members of the boys and girls committee and Key Club.

The Key Club will sponsor a float in the Christmas parade in cooperation with the Circleville Key Club.

Gerald Begin outlined the program committee's plans for the coming month and announced that the Christmas party will be at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 19 in Persinger Hall of the First Presbyterian Church. It will include treats and a program. Robert Angus was named the chairman.

Swanson Mounts announced in inter-club is planned for Dec. 21 at Wilmington and that an invitation has been extended to the club here to attend a charter presentation Dec. 13 a new club at Pickerington.

At the suggestion of James Eakins, the club discussed the possibility of assisting in the development of Christmas Park. He also announced that the club has been asked to sponsor a visit of the Red Cross Blood Bank mobile unit some time in the future.

President Wheat announced that Superintendent Edwin Nestor of the city schools will present part of the Humanities Series to the club Dec. 11.

atop a Saturn 5 rocket shortly after 7 p.m. EST to run through procedures in the final 2½ hours of a practice countdown.

The test is to end with a simulated liftoff at 9:53 p.m., the same time the Saturn 5 is to be fired on launch night.

The launch team Monday night successfully concluded a six-day countdown trial in which all phases of the actual count were duplicated, including pumping more than 2,245 tons of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen fuel into the rocket's cavernous tanks.

Launch Director Walter Kapryan said the test went very well.

After the test, the fuel was drained as a safety measure for today's exercise. The final countdown for this last flight in the Apollo series is scheduled to start Nov. 30.

On Dec. 11, Cernan and Schmitt are to steer the lunar ship they call Challenger to a touchdown in the Taurus-Littrow region of the moon on the rim of the Sea of Serenity.

There they hope to find some of the oldest — and youngest — rocks on the moon. As a geologist and the first scientist selected for space flight, Schmitt will add a new dimension to lunar exploration.

They plan a record 75 hours on the surface during which they'll make three moon buggy expeditions, each lasting seven hours. They are to drive a total of about 23 miles.

Evans will remain in moon orbit aboard the America while Cernan and Schmitt prowl the lunar surface below.

Cernan, Schmitt and Evans are now in a 21-day preflight medical isolation period.

The spacemen Monday passed an extensive physical examination and have one more major physical scheduled Dec. 1.

Joint board asks Rattlesnake funds

A Joint Board of County Commissioners from Fayette, Highland, Clinton, Greene and Madison counties Monday afternoon filed a formal resolution approving an application for $60,000 from the Department of Natural Resources to carry out a development project in the Rattlesnake Watershed District.

Robert Mace, chairman of both the Fayette County Board of Commissioners and the Joint Board of Commissioners, said the resolution was approved unanimously to seek planning funds for the watershed district's proposed improvements, dependent upon a favorable finding from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service. Mace said the ASCS will determine whether or not there will be a favorable cost-benefit ratio to property owners in the watershed if the improvement project were completed.

A special Thanksgiving service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Second Baptist Church, 802 Columbus Ave., the pastor, the Rev. Clinton Powell, announces.

Military spokesmen reported several rocket and mortar attacks 10 to 40 miles from Saigon with two Vietnamese killed and 12 wounded.

Fighting also flared in the western Mekong Delta near the Cambodian border. The Saigon command claimed 85 enemy troops were killed in Chau Doc and Kien Tuong provinces and munitions caches were seized. The only government losses reported were five men wounded.

Belle Aire hit by power failure

A section of Belle Aire was without electrical power for about an hour Tuesday morning when an insulator pin broke and ultimately caused the blowout of a transformer fuse.

George Winkle, manager of the Washington C.H. District office of Dayton Power and Light Co., said approximately 50 customers were without power from shortly before 4 a.m. until power was restored at about 5:10 a.m.

Winkle explained that the pin which held an insulator broke and caused wires to come in contact. The contact caused the transformer to go out of operation.

Property damage crashes reported

Two minor traffic accidents involving no injuries or citations were investigated by police and sheriff's departments Monday afternoon.

Police reported cars driven by Edith M. Scott, 73, of 617 Oak Circle, collided with the rear of a car driven by Brenda K. Boysel, 23, of 810 Sycamore St., at the intersection of North and East streets.

Officers said the Boysel car was attempting to turn right on East Street and stopped for traffic when the mishap occurred.

Damage was slight.

A car driven by James E. Kofenberger, 30, of Cincinnati, was backing on the Stuckey lot, U.S. 35 & I-71, and bumped a parked car owned by Robert J. Jenk, 27, of Cincinnati. Only minor damage was listed.

Stock list posts gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market scored moderate gains today in a rally analysts said was triggered in part by encouraging economic news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 5.65 to 1010.69. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by about 7 to 4.

Analysts said the report out of Washington that the rise in living costs during October was smaller than September levels and the report that net redemptions of mutual funds last month were below previous month figures gave investors encouragement.

"People are looking for an excuse to buy," said Robert Johnson, analyst with Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

On the American Stock Exchange, McCulloch Oil was actively traded and up 1½ to 16.

The Big Board index of more than 1,400 common stocks at noon was up .22 at 63.49, and the Amex index was up .04 at 26.20.

Nixon meets with hopefuls for Cabinet

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — As he receives long-distance reports on crucial Vietnam negotiations, President Nixon is pondering new assignments for several Cabinet-level officials who want to stay on during his second term.

The chief executive began the second week of an extended stay at his mountaintop Camp David retreat Monday by holding a series of six meetings, then a working dinner, with aides and key appointees to discuss his government-shakeup plan.

Today it is more of the same—with one intriguing addition. That is a scheduled appointment with New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Rockefeller has been rumored to be in the running for such a major Cabinet post as secretary of State. But in advance of today's meeting, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Rockefeller was "coming up to discuss reorganization matters, particularly domestic. He is not coming up to talk about a Cabinet position."

One appointee reportedly under consideration for the post of Defense Secretary, Deputy Secretary of Defense Kenneth Rush, was to see the President today.

During Monday's series of mountaintop meetings, Nixon put aside his reorganization plans to receive reports from Henry Kissinger on his round of negotiations with the North Vietnamese in Paris. The White House said Kissinger telephoned and cabled his reports to the President after Monday's 5½-hour negotiating session. Ziegler would not discuss details of those reports, citing an agreement with the North Vietnamese to say nothing about contents of the talks.

Scientist Church plans Thanksgiving service Thursday

Thanksgiving Day services open to the public will be held Thursday at all Churches of Christ, Scientist, in the area.

The service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 504 E. Temple St. will start at 10 a.m.

Hymns of gratitude, including "This Is the Day the Lord Hath Made," and "In Mercy, In Goodness, How Great Is Our King," will be sung by the congregation.

There is no clergy in the Church of Christ, Scientist. The service will be conducted by Mrs. Martha Gardner, the first reader, and Marvin Thornburg, the second reader.

"Thanks Be to God," will be sung by the soloist, Sandy Rhoads, accompanied by Mrs. John Rhoads.

Individual expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation will be a feature of the service. No collection of any kind will be taken, and all are invited to attend.

Pay report possible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state commission that is studying salaries of elected public officials will hold a public hearing in Columbus Friday morning and might submit a report to the lame duck legislature before it adjourns next month.

Howard Collier, temporary chairman of the Elected Official and Judicial Compensation Commission, said the nine-member group would "seriously consider" making a report to the governor and general assembly "in December."

Collier, a former state finance director, earlier had indicated the newly-appointed commission would be unable to make a report before early next year.

If lawmakers and county officials who begin new terms Jan. 1 are to get pay raises during the next four years, legislation providing the increases must be enacted by the outgoing legislature, which returns for final business Nov. 28.

This is because the Ohio Constitution prohibits granting raises to elected officials during their terms.

Demand removal of company's dam

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Attorneys for Ohio filed suit Monday asking that the Newport Concrete Co. be required to remove a dam from the Little Miami River in eastern Hamilton County.

Atty. Gen. William Brown said in the suit in common pleas court that the dam is used for mining gravel and interferes with commercial and recreational functions of the river.

Man, 109, succumbs

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled Wednesday for Thomas Swiney of Richmond, who was at least 109 years old — the oldest Social Security recipient in Indiana.

The former railroader, who attributed his longevity to long walks and abstinence from liquor and tobacco, died Monday in a Richmond hospital.

Swiney was not sure whether he was 109 years old or 110. Hospital records show he was born March 1, 1862, but Social Security files list his birthdate as March 1, 1863.

Some records give his birthplace as Bellefontaine, Ohio; others say West Virginia.

He came to Richmond from Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1961, drawing $40 a month in Social Security benefits and a small pension. A Social Security spokesman said he was past retirement age when Social Security came into existence.

Motorist succumbs to accident injuries

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A two-car crash here last Thursday has now claimed two lives.

The driver of one of the autos, Clifford Holmes, 80, of nearby Norwood, died Monday at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Gobbler 2 years in preparation

By CONNIE LARKIN
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The tough part of your Thanksgiving turkey is getting him to your friendly neighborhood store.

After that it's all gravy getting him to your festive table.

"Almost two years of planning goes into the turkey you buy at the store," said Dick Staugler. "We started ordering breeding turkeys for next year's crop of Thanksgiving turkeys back in January."

Staugler is general manager of the Wayne Poultry Co. of Fort Recovery, one of Ohio's largest processors of turkeys.

That means your Thanksgiving turkey, circa 1972, went into production in January, 1970, a gleam in a supermarket manager's eye.

Back in July, 1971, your turkey's parents may have arrived at Wayne as an egg, or perhaps even as a young bird, known in poultry circles as a poult.

"Then they were contracted out to various turkey farms to be grown," explained Staugler.

These farmed-out turkeys, said Staugler, didn't begin turning out little gobblers for 30 weeks, sometime last February or March.

"The offspring of those turkeys are the ones that will appear on this year's Thanksgiving table," he said.

Each store Wayne serves knows about how many turkeys it will need for the annual turkey stuffing season.

"We have to know that figure at least three weeks in advance of delivery," said Staugler. "If they want the turkeys packaged in their own labels, at least two months in advance."

So, your turkey is on the way. He may be in the store right now.

Part of the trouble is that Wayne—and any other turkey grower and processor—must make allowances for disease and sudden death. Turkeys are not noted for intellect and caution.

"We normally plan on a 10 per cent fatality figure for our birds," said Staugler, "and that's out of about 3 million pounds processed a year."

Then there's another bit of bother. Turkeymen love this bit—the year-round eater of turkey. Hopefully they report this type of turkey fancier increasing in numbers.

"The high cost of red meats, such as beef, make lower priced turkey an attractive buy," said Dr. Sherman Touchburn of Wooster, an Ohio State University researcher.

"This coupled with the fact that turkey is being sold in more variations, such as in the ground form, puts it in demand."

You may not go for turkeyburgers, but turkey processors are in there trying.

The Pilgrim Fathers wouldn't know today's turkey. He's white.

"Colored turkeys," said Dr. Touchburn, "are rapidly disappearing and now are being used for collecting and contest purposes."

Big item: the white feathers don't show up in the skin as much.

What with all this turkey-eating, Ohio produces about 10 million of the 120 million turkeys raised each year in the nation.

Jury is deadlocked in Cincinnati slaying

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A jury in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court has failed to return a verdict in the first-degree murder trial of Ann Gray, 32, of Cincinnati.

The jury reported Monday it was hopelessly deadlocked. Mrs. Gray was charged in the fatal shooting of her husband, Robert, 34, last Feb. 1, at their home here.

Democrats start regrouping

In a post-election interview, Sen. George McGovern remarked that he was more interested in reforming the country than in reforming the Democratic party. Others seem at the moment more bent on changes within the party, though they might maintain that in this enterprise national reform was also their ultimate end.

Whatever the motivations may be, there is clearly an effort under way to shunt McGovern aside and give the party a different direction than it had with him as its presidential nominee. There have been various indications of such a move. Two stand out particularly: the formation of a group called the Coalition for a Democratic Majority, and five key Democratic governors' call for the resignation of Mrs. Jean Westwood as the party's national chairman.

Mrs. Westwood was McGovern's choice for the post, and was elected to a four-year term after he won the presidential nomination. Now, though she has vowed to fight for the job, her tenure may be about to end abruptly. A strong nudge in that direction has been administered by five governors, all on the executive committee of the Democratic governors' caucus. If Mrs. Westwood does not resign as requested before the meeting of the Democratic National Committee on Dec. 8, the governors probably will offer a motion to declare the chairmanship vacant.

The Coalition for a Democratic Majority is making a pitch for members within the party on the strength of opposition to a number of McGovern's campaign positions. A recruiting pamphlet calls the election outcome "a clear signal to the Democratic party to return to the great tradition through which it had represented the wishes and hopes of a majority of the American people."

It is significant that the CDM has the support of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Henry M. Jackson, two of McGovern's rivals for the nomination. The group now is bent on convincing Democrats that the man who ran as their standard bearer is too "far out;" it disparages the so-called new politics and calls for "restoring the party to its rightful place of leadership."

These evident attacks on McGovern are not assured of success. Observers will be watching to see to what extent leading Democratic governors and members of Congress, and perhaps above all organizational leaders at the state and local levels, align themselves with this movement.

No great political vision is required, however, to perceive that the Democratic party must do some regrouping if it is to prevent the Republicans from consolidating a new majority. It is the start of this process of regrouping that we are now witnessing.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . By John P. Roche

Stone walls . . . not a prison

Fall has come to New England, the leaves are turning red and falling, and suddenly I am hit once again by a deep sense of failure, by the certain knowledge that my deepest ambition never will be fulfilled. You see, when I grow up, I don't want to be president, or even Henry Kissinger. I don't want to be a Pulitzer Prize winner.

I want to be an expert stone wall builder, and this time of year those magnificent old stone walls reappear from behind the bushes.

Now when I say a New England stone wall, I am not referring to those cheap imitations glued together with mortice, but to the real thing: a wall built of superbly balanced stones which seemingly can survive for centuries as long as no one tempts with them. Some 20 years ago on Martha's Vineyard I became familiar with them.

Our communal summerplace is criss-crossed by huge walls. Some of the stones had fallen, or had been dislodged by the kids, and one day a commando went forth to make repairs. A cinch—you might think. All you do is stick the rocks that have fallen back on the wall.

BY EVENING we were all among the walking wounded. Those rocks kept falling right back down, grazing legs, crushing toes, and generally resisting amateur rehabilitation. So we took counsel with our friend, the late Roger Allen, who knew everything about everything. He smiled, observed genially that "of-islanders always have to learn these things the hard way," and recommended a wall builder. We called the wall builder, who promised to come the next day.

About 10 days later, according to island custom, he appeared. He apologized for the delay, explaining that he had been putting up a "two-button wall" rather than the "three-button" one he had planned. We nodded sagely, although we hadn't the foggiest notion of what measuring system he was referring to. It turned out that a "two-button wall" was one that came to the height of his second shirt button; a "three-button" was somewhat lower.

To make a long story short, that man

No pay for torture

Many a bedeviled consumer's heart will gambol like a spring lamb at word of what Milton Machlin did to the Penn Central Railroad. What a jury did, rather, by way of upholding his refusal to pay for abominable service.

Machlin, by vocation an explorer, holds the view that riding the Penn Central is "more hazardous than exploring the territory of the New Guinea head-hunting countries. It seems he felt that his opinion was upheld by circumstances one day last August when (as he later described it at his trial in White Plains, N.Y. City Court) the heat and humidity in his commuter car stood above 90, there was no air conditioning, and some 40 passengers were standing in the aisles. Goaded to strong measures, he refused to pay the conductor a $1.65 fare.

The railroad charged him with theft of service. The jury has just acquitted him, ruling in effect that his refusal to come across with the fare was justified. Translated freely, this means that if the service is lousy the consumer can get away with refusing to pay for it. Sometimes, anyway.

had a way with rocks that would have merited conviction for witchcraft in the 16th Century. By the time he got finished, the walls were back in perfect shape, capable of resisting anything short of being socked by a truck. (And in the one instance when that has occurred, the truck took a worse mauling than the wall.) It looked so easy (and I watched him like a hawk), but every summer when I once more throw myself in to minor wall repairs, the rocks, almost superciliously, come tumbling right back down.

I haven't given up yet, but in the meantime I have turned my attention to a lesser art: building a woodpile. Here, happily, I can report some progress. For some outrageous surtax the people who sell wood will stack it, but I sneered and said, "Just dump it by the garage. I'll stack it myself." They smiled a secret smile and departed. Building a woodpile is surely a simple matter: you just put down a row of logs, add another, and another, and there it is.

I SET TO WORK and was doing splendidly up to the fifth level. Then there was an odd quiver and everything started to slide, leaving me with one row of logs about 50 feet long—virtually a corduroy road. I could have cheated, as some of my neighbors have, and put the wood firmly between two trees, but then I would have had to put on snowshoes to get wood.

So back I went to the drawing board (using, I confess, one tree) and after several false starts got myself a solidly balanced woodpile. That was about seven years ago and now I am proud to report that I can stack two cords of wood in a way that my ancestors would admire. (That is, if I had any wood-stacking ancestors. Mine stacked peat, which sounds easy, but probably isn't.)

It's odd how good this makes me feel, but just about the time my ego starts to glow, I think of stone walls. Well, I'll try again next summer.

Democrats struggling for control say they're not really against McGovern, and we believe 'em. They're not so much against McGovern as for themselves.

There is the first Christmas I recall that it is so important to get at the photographic Christmas shopping early. The better gift cameras are scarce. We have only one movie camera left. Many of the other cameras will be gone soon. If you shop early you'll have the advantage of a better selection and, without the time push, we will better be able to help you select just the right gift for the right person.

Flash equipment will be much in demand this year. With the new automatic electronic flash units on the market, this is the area for some of the better gifts. In the $10 to $20 area there are the photo-eyes to make any electronic flash unit into a slave for greater flexibility in flash photography.

Photo books are always good for gifts. We have the Kodak publications, and many more. Our book department is popular at Christmas time. We have just the right book for all those people on your list. Think about it. But don't think too long, because this is the year that the early fox will get the choicest poultry.

We still have a few copies left of Frank Capell's THE STRANGE DEATH OF MARILYN MONROE. If you haven't read that one, get with it. After reading that one you'll want to read Capell's THE UNTOUCHABLES and THE UNTOUCHABLE — BOOK TWO

Construction costs for seaway studied

DETROIT (AP) — Construction costs on the St. Lawrence Seaway might be the major obstacle to having year-round shipping on the Great Lakes, according to a University of Wisconsin professor scheduled to speak at a Winter Navigation Board seminar next month.

Eric Scheneker, professor of economics and associate director of the Center for Great Lakes Studies at U-W said in a paper to be read at the Dec. 5-6 seminar that construction costs on the seaway alone for a six-week extension would cost $144 million-five times the cost of a two-week extension and twice the cost of a four-week one.

25 YEARS AGO

Dr. Gordon E. Savage, of Xenia, was officially appointed health commissioner of Fayette County by the Board of health at a special meeting. Heading the delegation from the Washington C. H. area Chamber of Commerce to the state C. of C. convention in Columbus was Chamber President Belford F. Carpenter. With him were Gilbert Crouse, the first vice president, Frank Jean and T. Harold Craig of the directorate, and Forest F. Tipton, the legislative representative. Fred Rost, executive secretary, went to the capital city a day early.

Appointment of Mrs. Marie Smalley of Greenfield as public health nurse of the Fayette County Health Department was announced by Gretchen Darlington, acting secretary of the Board of Health.

Two field goals by Herbert Reid gave the Washington Independents a 6 to 0 victory over the Williamsport Bear Cats at East Side Park.

Dear Abby:

Can a healthy man lose his manhood?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if there is such a thing as a man losing his manhood? I hope you won't think I am stupid, but I am 59, and my husband is 60, and we have not had sexual relations for over 12 years.

When I asked our family doctor about it, he said it's possible for some men to lose their manhood at 40. Is this true? We asked a couple who have been close friends for a number of years if their sex lives had come to a halt, and they said their sex lives were better now than when they were younger. The man is 63 and the woman is 61. Are they lying?

I am in good health and so is my husband. I am no sex maniac, but I really do believe my husband could do better by me if he tried. But how can I be sure he is capable of it? I don't want to make demands he can't fulfill. Keep this confidential, please.

BOSTON READER
DEAR READER: It's not normal for a healthy man to lose his manhood at 40. He should be examined physically again. If he's physically sound, his problem could be psychological. Be sure he covers all the bases. He has many good years ahead of him — and so have you!

DEAR ABBY: This is a message to office employees, secretaries, and mine in particular:

I came to this office as a much younger man and now hold a responsible executive position. My secretary was here when I started, and along with other employees, she addressed me by my first name. Once an employee calls the boss by his first name, it's almost impossible to ask for a "Mister" without creating a chill that affects office efficiency.

My secretary is capable, but more than once she has embarrassed me by using my first name. Because I deal with some distinguished people, I try to answer my own phone, knowing that it's possible that my secretary may say, "Harry, it's for you."

There are circumstances when it's terrible touchy to suddenly ask to be called "Mister" after one is addressed by his first name. That's the situation I find myself in.

Perhaps my employees will see this, and understand that they can't go wrong with a "Mister," but you can cause embarrassment and controlled irritation with a first name. In my contact with other executives, I am never favorably impressed with an office staff who refers to the boss as "Harry."

CALL ME MISTER IN MID-MISSOURI

DEAR MISTER: Since you had what it took to go from a "Harry" to an executive, lay it on the line, and tell your staff that "Harry" is okay in inner-office conversation, but outside the "family" you'd prefer to be called "Mister."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl and have a question I hope you won't think is too dumb to answer. How do you get a boy to notice you?

NOT VERY PRETTY

DEAR NOT: No question is too "dumb" to answer. You get a boy to notice you by noticing HIM. When he becomes aware that HE has been noticed by YOU, he'll notice you. And don't worry about being "not very pretty." A very wise man once said, "Beauty is a gift. Charm must be cultivated. A beautiful woman is one I notice. A charming woman is one who notices ME."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UNMARRIED, PREGNANT AND BETWEEN TWO FIRES": Since you state you are morally against abortion, and your only problem is whether to keep the baby or put it out for adoption, I urge you to go to an organization called BIRTHRIGHT. They are very much concerned about women in your plight and will help you to make a decision you can live with. God bless you.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am a schoolteacher, and after a day of work with children I am completely hoarse.

After a few days of rest the hoarseness stops. My voice becomes clear. My concern, of course, is the possibility of permanent damage to my vocal cords.

Dear Miss R.:

The vocal cords are two small muscles in the larynx, or voice box. They come together during speech, and separate when we breathe. Like all muscles, when they are overused, they become fatigued.

The vocal cords, pounding against each other all day long, actually cause moderate swelling of the lining that surrounds them. The result is hoarseness.

seness.

If these muscles are not rested, the injury to the vocal cords can produce chronic changes so that eventually voice production is reduced markedly.

Hoarseness is, in your case, an occupational hazard. Many teachers, singers, preachers and salesmen must learn to modify the use of their vocal cords if chronic changes in the cords are to be avoided.

After a day's work, a good idea is to use warm steam for a few minutes. This is a very soothing treatment. In addition, it is important not to whisper, for whispering actually puts more of a strain on the vocal cords than soft or modulated speaking.

You did not mention in your letter whether you smoked. If you do, I would

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Today is D-day of sorts for the Columbia Broadcasting System unless a miracle or a new contract intervenes.

Starting at 6 p.m. EST, the network's correspondents, anchormen, announcers and entertainers are to start honoring the picket lines of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The 1,200 cameramen, technicians and engineers of CBS who belong to the IBEW went out on strike Nov. 3 after failing to reach agreement with CBS on a new contract. No new negotiations are in sight.

It means that by Wednesday night we'll probably start sighting some new faces on the CBS Evening News and hear some verbal fluffs on the network's Thanksgiving Day and Sunday pro football telecasts.

The reason is that the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, which represents the 1,700 on-air folk at CBS facilities around the nation, has ordered them to honor the IBEW lines tonight.

AFTRA is telling them to finish their workday if it starts before 6 p.m. today.

The big crunch for CBS starts at dawn Wednesday, when its management and supervisory personnel — already manning television cameras and broadcast consoles — take to the airwaves for better or for worse.

On the entertainment side, the AFTRA action means that two live daytime soap operas — "As the World Turns" and "Edge of Night" — temporarily will be replaced by films or reruns of other shows.

Six other soap operas taped here have enough new shows to last at least through Friday and three morning game shows have an advance supply of taped new shows that will last from two weeks to a month.

Come nightfall, "The Sonny and Cher" shows poses the only immediate problem. A network spokesman said there's just one new show in the can and it goes on the air this Friday.

The network's other taped shows — like "Maude" and "The New Bill Cosby Show" — are good through mid-December at least and, in Cosby's case, until the first week in January.

On the news side, a search has been under way since Thursday to find another Arnold Zenker for the CBS evening news. As many as 30 would-be Zenkers have been auditioned for the job so far.

Zenker, now an AFTRA member and proprietor of a television talk show in Boston, is the former CBS executive who replaced Walter Cronkite during AFTRA's 13-day strike against the networks in 1967.

Six returnees to bolster WCH's hoop hopes

Grid playoffs postpone MT's cage lidlifter

Ohio's first-ever football playoffs have forced postponement of Miami Trace's 1972-73 basketball opener. Columbus Watterson, which was to be the Panthers' opening foe, meets Akron St. Vincent - St. Mary Friday night at Massillon in a battle for the Class AA schoolboy title.

Delmar Mowery, athletic director at Miami Trace, said the game has been rescheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 28 at Watterson. The reserve game will start at 5:30 p.m.

The Panthers will open their season Saturday night by playing host to Springfield Northeastern.

Quick Lions to open cage card Wednesday

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

A veteran-healthy Washington C. H. Blue Lion basketball team will inaugurate its 1972-73 campaign Wednesday night by tangling with always-tough Portsmouth under the Trojan rafters.

Head coach Gary Shaffer's fifth Blue Lion edition will lack height, but six returning lettermen, five of whom were full-timers a year ago, have the Washington C.H. taskmaster enthusiastic about the new season.

The Blue Lion cagers boast a well-balanced unit filled with experience and poise and Shaffer feels the team will be able to compensate for its lack of height in other areas such as a more patient offense and a sticky defense.

"THEY HAVE the ability, but they must have the proper attitude and realize that their best effort must be put forth," the fifth year Washington C. H. boss said in looking ahead to the season.

Washington C. H. will also be quicker than in past years and this figures to be a prime factor as the Lions hope to better a 6-12 all-games chart and 4-6 South Central Ohio League record registered during the 1971-72 crusade.

Chuck Bath, a smooth-shooting 6-foot-1 senior forward, is one of the five returnees who started at least 10 games last winter. Bath was the team's top scoreboy with a neat 11.4 all-games total which ranked him ninth in the SCOL stats.

Although Shaffer has not confirmed a definite starting lineup for Wednesday's season debut, Joe Downs, a 5-foot-11 senior, figures to join Bath at the other forward position. Both Downs and Bath landed All-SCOL honorable mention berths a year ago.

Trojan team nearly mirrors Lion quint

Fans attending the Washington C. H. Portsmouth basketball game Wednesday night will see a pair of similar teams which nearly mirror each other.

The two teams are both lacking in height and will look toward quickness and agility to compensate for that weakness.

Head coach Gary Shaffer's Blue Lions will hold an edge in experience, but all other factors will be nearly identical.

Portsmouth, under the direction of veteran head coach Bob Doll, lost four starters via graduation from the 1971-72 Trojan team which posted a neat 14-9 all-games record and advanced to the regional tournament level before being ushered to the sidelines by Celina.

THE BLUE Lions, on the other hand, boast six returning letter-winners and five first-teamers in that battalion in hopes of bettering a 6-12 worksheet.

Doll, who has registered a fine 52-31 record in four seasons as the Trojan taskmaster, has only one returning starter to begin his rebuilding program.

Keith Williamson, a 6-foot-0 senior who was a member of Portsmouth's sectional and district tournament championship edition a year ago, is the lone returning starter.

Williamson, who will provide most of the inside muscle for the Scioto Countians, will probably be one of three forwards in Doll's starting lineup, but can also play guard. Williamson's partners will be smooth-shooting Rick McGlone, a 6-2 senior, and Pat Spriggs, a 6-3 senior.

Doll's backcourt duo will consist of Bo Clemens, a 5-7 junior, and Ralph White, a 5-10 senior. Allen Franz, a 6-1 junior, will spell one of the inside boys while Jim Oliver, a 6-0 junior, will play in the backcourt.

WCH game directions

Fans attending the Washington C.H. - Portsmouth game Wednesday night should travel U.S. 35 from Washington C. H. to Chillicothe and then take U.S. 23 south to Portsmouth.

Follow U.S. 23 into Portsmouth and turn left on Eighth St. Follow this street until it dead ends at the intersection of Gallia and Waller where the school is located.

Southwest district stars named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mike Gayles, Cincinnati Princeton's explosive tailback Monday was named The Associated Press Ohio Southwestern District Class AAA high school back of the year.

A district panel of sports writers also tapped Kettering Fairmont East's Doug Schmidt for district coach of the year and Troy end-linebacker Bill Widden as area lineman of the year in Class AAA.

Schmidt guided Fairmont East to a 9-1 record in his fourth season after 2-8, 4-6 and 7-3 years.

Class AA area back of the year, is a triple threat. He plays quarterback, intercepted 19 career passes as a deep defensive back and also kicks field goals. Gary Campbell of Cincinnati Harrison was the Class AA lineman of the year.

Co-coaches of the year in Class A were John Davis of Xenia Wilson and Jim Villinger of Cedarville.

Davis led Wilson to a 9-0 season after his team finished 1-9 and 2-8 the last two years. Villinger coached a 9-0 squad at Cedarville for the school's first unbeaten campaign.

Mike Klapheke, a junior who led Middletown Fenwick into the playoffs, was the Southwestern Class A back of the year and Steve Liddy, a 6-3, 232-pounder at Sidney Lehman, the No. 1 lineman.

The board did not select a second team defense in Class AA or second team in Class A because it felt there were not enough worthy players in the area for the honor.

Soap box derby seeking sponsor

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Efforts are under way to save the All-American Soap Box Derby, a fixture for American youths since 1934.

The derby, which is held annually at the 975-foot Derby Downs track here, is now without a sponsor.

The Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. canceled its sponsorship Sept. 29, deciding the $500,000 it invested in the race could be better spent on the Junior Olympic Program of the Amateur Athletic Union.

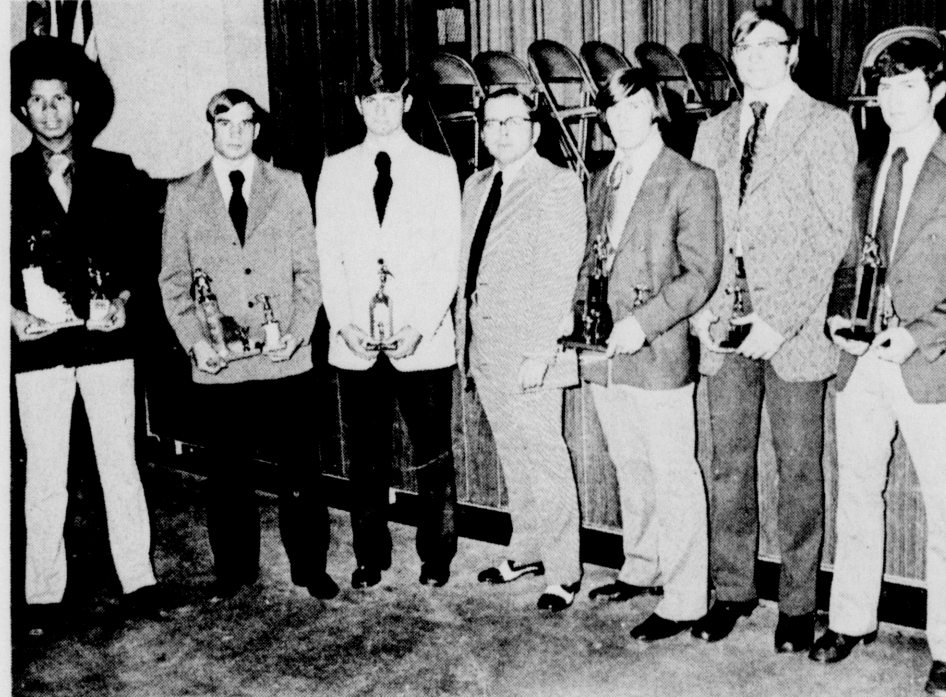

Grooms named MT's 'most valuable' Panther grid team honored

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Members of Miami Trace's 1972 football teams and the cheerleading squads were guests of honor at the annual booster club-sponsored banquet held Monday night.

Co-featuring the annual fete was the presentation of special awards to six Panther football players and the fine speech delivered by Owen Hauck, head football coach at Mt. Healthy High School in Cincinnati.

Tony Grooms, perhaps the finest running back in Miami Trace's history, captured the coveted most valuable player award. Grooms, a 5-foot-10, 180-pound senior tailback, gained 1,408 yards in 176 rushes this year to push his two-year rushing total to 2,578 yards and 36 touchdowns.

GLENN GIFFORD landed the defensive back trophy. Jeff Spears nabbed the offensive lineman honors, Gardner Cobb, who has been described as the top defensive player in Panther history, took the "headhunter" award, junior Doug Ford grabbed the most improved player trophy and senior quarterback Pete Jones copped the offensive back accolades to highlight the awards presentation.

Doug James, Miami Trace's defensive coordinator, presented awards to members of the Panthers' 7-3 team.

Cheerleaders honored by advisor Mrs. Beverly Walters were freshmen, Tammy Walters, Tami Tarbill, Betsy Drake, Rosemary Evans and Tammi Johnson; reserve, Connie Hughes, Denise Lyons, Beanie Cross, Jolene Rapp and Darla Krupla, and varsity, Julie Blake, Kathy Woodfork, Connie Stayrook, Carol Justice and Jo Lynn LeBeau.

Delbert Brown, president of the booster club presented senior awards to the players and cheerleaders. The players were Pete Jones, Jeff Moore, Tony Grooms, Terry Smith, Randy Hammond, Ron Bays, Jim Sears, Glenn Gifford, Chris Humphries, Jeff Spears, Harvey Bryan and Gardner Cobb.

Managers honored by trainer Tim Hobbs were Jim Noble, David Knisley, Tarkio Chester and Kurt Brown.

The Rev. Kenneth Dean, pastor of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church, delivered the invocation and remarks were made by Fleisher and athletic director Delmar Mowery, Bernier, who coached under Hauck at Mt. Healthy before coming to Miami Trace, introduced the guest speaker.

Redskins smash Falcons for 24-13 NFL victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Three cheers for the Redskins," sang the husky-voiced Washington football team. "Three cheers for the Redskins ... rah, rah, rah."

These are grown men, mind you.

"Hooray for Pat. Hooray for Pat Fischer," continued the offkey locker room chorus. "Hooray for Alvin. Hooray for Alvin Haymond. Rah, rah, rah."

Redskin victories since 1942 when D.C. had its last world champion.

Billy Kilmer hit 7-for-7 in the third quarter, topping an 89-yard march with an 18-yard touchdown pass to Larry Brown and later hitting tight end Jerry Smith on a 12-yard score.

A 10-7 Falcon halftime lead vanished amid the Kilmer barrage that put Washington into 21-10 command. Bill Bell kicked a fourth-period field goal and Curt Knight matched it with a 37-yarder that drew a standing ovation.

Knight, you see, had blown six straight field goal attempts and had been showered with boos for two earlier goofs.

The Redskins are the world's oldest, largest, highest-paid Boy Scouts. George Allen is as much their scoutmaster as the coach of the National Football League powerhouse.

After a victory, Allen passes out game footballs like so many merit badges. Monday night was Fischer's turn for gutty defense that got him a black eye and Haymond's turn for nifty kick returning.

"We sing because we're happy," said Allen. "It was a big win for us. The pressure's now on the Dallas Cowboys for Thursday's game. We'll just sit back and watch what happens."

Washington had just smacked over the Atlanta Falcons 24-13 for their seventh straight, the longest streak of Opening lead — king of diamonds. Endplays seldom come about all by themselves. Declarer must generally exercise considerable acumen to attain the endplay position he seeks, and he usually has to apply himself to the problem right from the start.

Take this deal where West leads the king of diamonds and shifts to the king of clubs. Declarer wins with the ace and sees that if the cards are all stacked against him he may ultimately lose a spade, two hearts and a diamond.

South has no control over the trump loser if the suit is divided 2-0, so all his thoughts are concentrated on finding a way to restrict himself to one heart loser. In line with this he ruffs a club at trick three, the first step in the elimination process he plans to invoke to produce the desired effect. Without this play South would lose the contract.

He then plays the ace of trumps, East showing out, and proceeds to ruff a diamond, a club, a diamond, and finally the last club. Having eliminated all the clubs and diamonds from his own hand and dummy's, South is ready for the sure-fire endplay. He puts West on lead with a trump.

By this time everyone is down to four cards. Dummy has three hearts and a trump, and so has South. West, with two tricks in the bag, is on lead and unhappy. If he returns a diamond, he hands South a ruff and discard as well as the contract. And if he returns a heart instead, the outcome is the same, for South loses only one heart trick.

It pays to plan the play.

City School Board acts on personnel matters

The City Board of Education Monday night employed an elementary teacher, appointed spring sports coaches and employed instructors for the driver's education program in addition to handling a number of other items on a busy agenda.

The board also decided to proceed with a major lighting improvement program at Gardner Park Stadium, took under advisement a recommended remodeling plan to create equipment storage for the Junior High School gymnasium and approved a number of resolutions designating fiscal agents for services performed in the school district.

PERSONNEL MATTERS

Terrance Feick, a graduate of Morehead State University, was employed as an elementary teacher effective Jan. 2 and contingent upon his meeting Ohio certification requirements.

Employed as driver education instructors were John Armstrong and Jon Creamer at a rate of $45 per student. Two cars will be supplied to the school by Carroll Halliday, Inc. and Ralph Hickman, Inc., by Nov. 27 when actual driving instruction is to begin.

Named as spring sports coaches by the board were Rodger Mickle, head baseball coach with an increment of $300; Dale Lynch as reserve baseball coach with an increment of $200; John Armstrong as senior high track coach with an increment of $300; Carl Anders as junior high track coach with an increment of $200; and Harry Townsend as the golf coach with an increment of $200.

THE BOARD also discussed the appointment of one or two coaches for the 5th and 6th grade basketball program in which more than 100 boys would be involved, but took no immediate action pending further investigation by Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor.

The program was suspended and the increment paid a 5th-6th grade coach was awarded to the assistant varsity basketball coach, a new position approved by the board earlier this year. The creation of the new position was contingent upon the establishment of a junior high intramural program, which never materialized.

Through requests from many parents with boys involved, the board is reconsidering the discontinuance of the lower grades basketball program.

GARDNER PARK LIGHTING

The board unanimously approved a new lighting plan for Gardner Park football field and instructed Superintendent Nestor to proceed with the project in the best and less costly manner.

It is anticipated that Washington Athletic Facilities Corp. (WAFCO) and the high school athletic council will participate in the costs of installing four new poles and all new lights at the football field. The poles have already been purchased and are being stored at the park. Estimated cost of the materials is $7,095 and the board anticipates receiving donated labor to complete the project prior to next football season.

EQUIPMENT STORAGE

The board adjourned to the Junior High School gymnasium to view an area proposed for construction of an equipment storage room and returned to the meeting to instruct the superintendent to further study the plans.

The project, as proposed, would call for construction of the room in a hallway at the rear of the gymnasium which runs between the main building and the cafeteria. Superintendent Nestor is to determine whether or not the school's trampoline would fit into the new room before the project is approved.

BUS BREAKDOWN

Superintendent Nestor informed the board that bus No. 6 received a damaged cylinder block which necessitated installation of a new block by Carroll Halliday, Inc. at a cost of $850. He said the bus was placed back into service.

He also reported that the district's new bus, which will be designated No. 7, has arrived and that the bus will be placed into service after licensing and inspection requirements are satisfied.

FACILITY USE

Approval was given the Kiwanis Club to use the Junior High School auditorium for the Teen Talent Contest Feb. 17 with permission to use the facility Feb. 16, for rehearsals.

Gary Brown, Cubmaster at Eastside Elementary School, also was granted permission to use that school's cafeteria for a Christmas party Dec. 21.

RESOLUTIONS

The board approved several resolutions, one involving participation in the 17-school district Hopewell Special Education Resources Center at Hillsboro.

The resolution came as part of a plan approved by the board Monday night for submission to the State Board of Education, a plan concerning special education which is required by the state. The report details the district's present status and future needs and services in the area of special education.

The board also approved a resolution designating the Wilmington City School District as the fiscal agent for a consultant for special education and approved payment of $95.25 to that district for services; and a resolution designating Highland County as the fiscal agent for a psychologist used by both Washington C. H. and Miami Trace districts and authorized payment of $1,129 as the city's share of costs.

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS

The board acknowledged a gift of a linotype machine for the printing department from The Record-Herald; Agreed to make available following a future assembly New Testaments being given by the Gideons International to students in grades 5 through 12;

Huntington posts 44-cent dividend

Huntington Bancshares Inc. has announced a dividend of 44 cents per share payable Jan. 2, 1973, to shareholders of record Dec. 8. The announcement was made by Clair E. Fultz, president, following action by the Board of Directors.

Huntington Bancshares is a registered bank holding company based in Columbus with total assets in excess of $1.18 billion as reported Sept. 30.

Huntington Bancshares has 12 affiliated banks operating 73 banking offices throughout Ohio. The Huntington National Bank of Columbus is a principal affiliate as is the Washington Savings Bank.

Authorized the testing of all 9th and 10th grade students for the joint vocational school at a cost of 35 cents per student. The general aptitude test battery will be given at no cost to the students;

Made two routine fund transfers; Received reports on the recent Parent-Teacher Conference, which was termed highly successful, and the Ohio School Boards Association Conference;

Reviewed financial reports and election results as they pertained to the 2-mill levy renewal received by the board Nov. 7;

Acknowledged receipt of a letter from Mrs. Frank Weade concerning the board's support of the levy for the Progressive School;

Learned that the Junior High Student Council is planning to purchase carpet for the library; and

Court reverses conviction in burglary case

The Second District Court of Appeals for Fayette County, in a decision rendered Monday, has reversed the conviction in Common Pleas Court of a Washington C.H. man on burglary charges.

Judge Paul Sherer reversed the conviction of Vernon Cecil Rose, 48, formerly of 606 Gibbs Ave., in connection with the burglary of Chick and Bill's Tavern, 608 Delaware St.

Rose was arrested by city police for the offense in June, 1970.

In the court's opinion, the indictment against Rose failed to allege a necessary element of crime in that ownership of the property burglarized was not made a part of the indictment. The court held that the name "Chick and Bills" did not clearly show such ownership.

However, the appellate court remanded Rose to Common Pleas Court for disposition of a parole violation matter which was filed against him during the time of his arrest.

WCH probationer must serve term

A Washington C.H. man convicted of burglarizing a downtown apartment and later released from prison on shock probation has been sentenced to serve the remainder of his 1-to-15-year prison sentence by Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Clifton Ferrell Woodson, 30, formerly of 320 Broadway, was sentenced to the 1-to-15-year prison term in April, but was released in custody of Fayette County Sheriff Don Thompson pending his transfer to Florida parole authorities. He had been found guilty of burglarizing an apartment located above the Emerald Inn, S. Fayette St.

A condition of the shock probation was that Woodson be transferred to Florida authorities, however, Florida authorities refused to accept him, the court was notified.

Judge Coffman Monday re-imposed the prison sentence and ordered Woodson returned to the London Prison Farm with credit against his sentence for the time he has spent in the county jail awaiting acceptance or denial of his transfer to Florida.

Files expense account

Mrs. Catherine L. Hyer, incumbent clerk of Common Pleas Court who successfully sought re-election in the Nov. 7 general election, has filed a statement of campaign expenses with the Fayette County Board of Elections. Mrs. Hyer listed expenses of $66.43 and no contributions.

Continuance granted in grand theft case

A variety of non-traffic complaints, including a grand larceny charge against a 31-year-old Staunton man, were brought before Judge Reed M. Winegardner in Municipal Court Monday afternoon.

William J. Suiter, 31, of Staunton, charged with grand larceny in connection with a massive theft of appliances, carpeting, furniture and other supplies from Redman Industries, asked for a continuance of his case to consult an attorney.

Judge Winegardner granted the continuance and also continued Suiter's $5,000 bond.

The case was set for preliminary hearing Dec. 18.

John R. Hinchey, 20, of 119½ E. Oak St., pleaded guilty to a check fraud charge and was fined $100 and costs.

Hinchey was arrested by city police on a warrant filed by Stop and Go, Fayette Center. Judge Winegardner suspended $50 of the fine pending good behavior for one year and payment of the $3 insufficient funds check.

A GUILTY PLEA was also entered by Ronald E. Wheeler, 21, of 224 W.

Temple St., on a charge of defrauding a taxicab, filed by cab driver Roscoe Riley.

Riley said he had driven Wheeler to five different locations in the city before Wheeler finally left the cab and refused to pay for the ride.

Wheeler was fined $30 and costs and received a 10-day suspended jail term on the complaint. He was ordered to pay Riley the $3 for the cab fare.

Two men were fined and another forfeited bond in conservation cases heard by the court.

Joseph Brown, 32, of Greenfield, and Steve A. Lovell, Dayton, were fined $100 each on complaints filed by Jerry Cremeans, state game protector. Lovell was charged with shooting a hen pheasant and Brown with littering along Paint Creek.

Judge Winegardner suspended $50 of both fines pending no further violations for one year.

Charles S. Paulsen, 20, of Reynoldsburg, forfeited $25 bond on a charge of hunting without permission. The complaint was filed Saturday by Kenneth McCrea, Rt. 1, New Holland
